Amtech has made it our business to understand your business. With 10 years' experience building highly effective partnerships with the medical and dental professions we know your industry because it's our industry too.

Working closely with you has given Amtech insights not just into the business but more importantly into the way you work on a daily basis. By understanding these factors, and then looking at how we can help you, we have been able to apply some creative thinking to our customer service. Amtech believes we have an obligation to keep the process as simple and rewarding as we can, so that you can spend more time helping the people in your care.

We also know change is constant. We endeavour to look for innovative ways to provide you with the best products on the market, in value and range. This is our company goal and our promise to you.

Helping you help others by understanding your needs

UNDERSTANDING
DELIVERING

To be progressive in the field of healthcare, an organisation needs to be able to focus on the care it provides. Spending more time with clients means better outcomes of care.
At Amtech we are always improving the service we offer, looking for the next best ways we can help you.

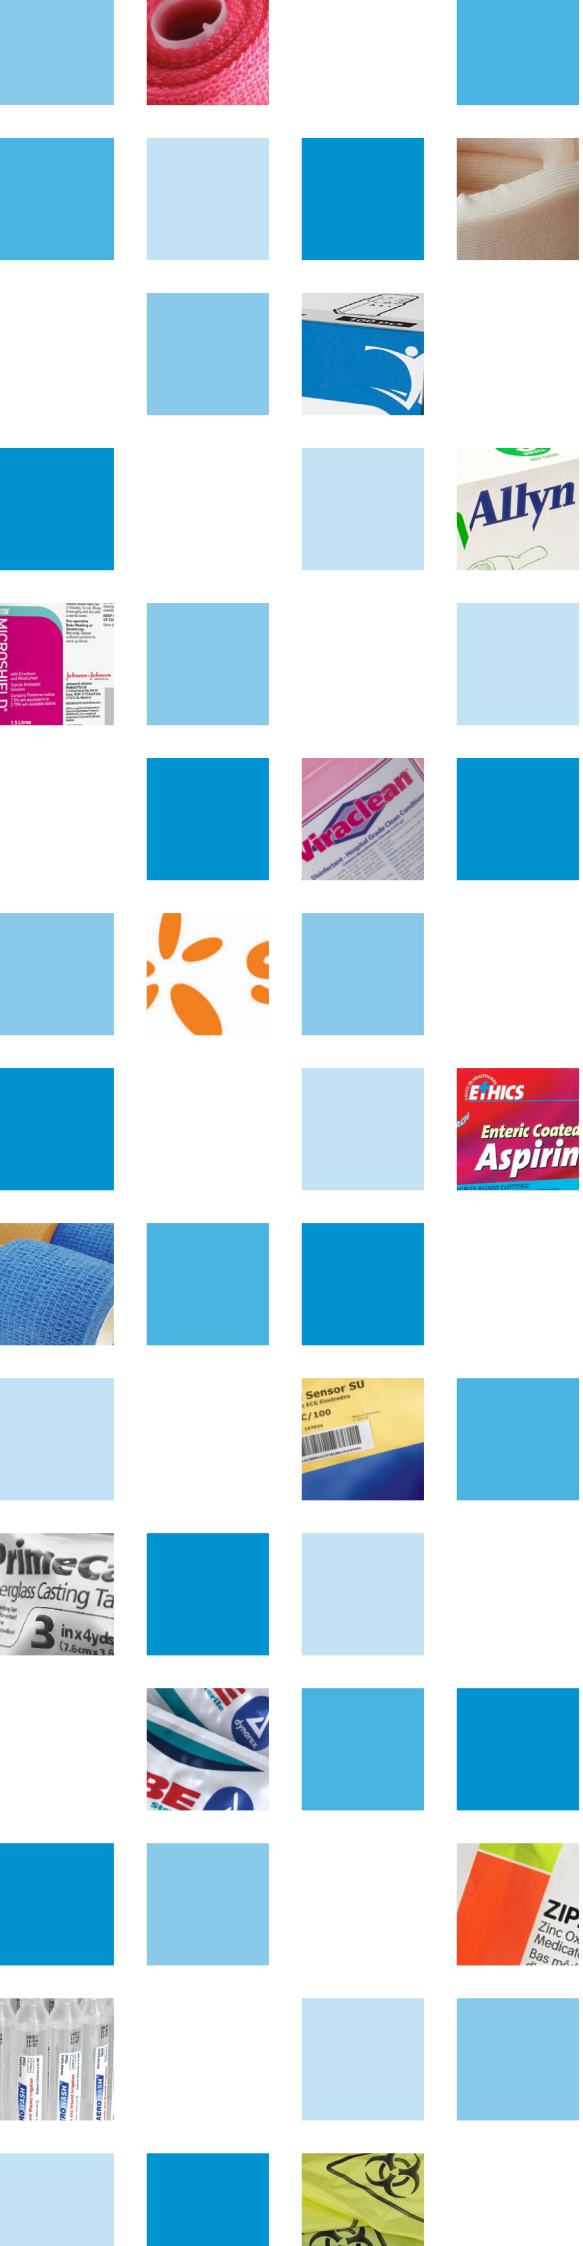

We have recently introduced an app 'Rappid' for tablets and smartphones that simplifies the process of ordering from us. This app is easy to use, making ordering from us efficient, and less time consuming by offering features such as alternative product suggestions and the ability to view historical orders.

It's not just in information technology that Amtech have made changes. We also have a purpose built clean room production facility, enabling us to manufacture single use sterile medical instruments in-house. This means we have exceptional quality control and flexibility of supply. As the only facility of its kind in New Zealand, it is proving to be the preferred option for many of our customers that were using similar products manufactured overseas.

Understanding and identifying the needs of the industry was our starting point. Using creative and innovative thinking to we want to achieve the most important step in the process – delivering solutions to meet your requirements.

We offer a complete range of products for the first aid, sports and medical industries

EUROFARM SILVERMED

Silvermed is a dressing combining advanced moist wound healing technologies with silver. The healing process arises from the modifications that silver ions determine on the proteins of bacterial cells. These alterations allow the rapid lyses of pathogens and speed up the wound process healing leading to shorter hospital stays and relevant costs.

Silvermed acts as an antibacterial. The silver is hydro-activated in a controlled manner by the exudates. Silver ions are released in accordance to the level of exudates and bacterial burden of the wound. Creates a moist wound environment ideal for fast healing. Provides an effective barrier to bacterial penetration preventing infections on wound site. Does not adhere on the wound and dressing changes are atraumatic.

Silvermed is indicated for:
- Burns
- Infected ulcers
- Pressure sores
- Superficial erosions by overinfection
- Granulating ulcers
